HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus, No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are from the dictionary, except proper names, abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

ESSEX "6" COACH

With All-Steel, Bolted and Riveted, Clear Vision Body
The Product of Essex' New $10,000,000 Body Plant

Many of these advantages you will recognize at a glance. But you will have higher appreciation of their meaning when you know that a plant of 18 acres which with equipment approximated a cost of $10,000,000, was first built and that special machinery had to be designed, to make possible the New Coach your dealer is now showing.

It is all steel, bolted and riveted, and so rigid that squeaks, rattles and distortions, are as unlikely as in a steel building. Doors are so hung that a man may hang on an open door while the car is being driven over rough roads, without springing it out of true.

And it is so designed and constructed as to permit the use in a totally new manner of a high baked enamel, most lustrous and lasting finish.

There has been constant improvement in the chassis from the first Essex shipped. And only by the accumulation of the resources, the information, experience, and the skill that have resulted from the building of 350,000 Essex "Sixes" was it possible to create this car which we ask you to inspect and to drive as the best looking, best value, best Essex ever built.

Seven Eventful Days in the Magalloway Region

FISHING, SIGHT-SEEING, BOATING AND ENTANGLEMENTS WITH THE FISH AND GAME LAWS

We recently visited Flint's Camps up the Magalloway. Stopped seven nights and seven days and got more than seven fish. Had thrills and adventures for which good money was paid. Tell into the legal clutches of Two-Gun-Benson, warden, who wears a broad-brimmed hat and rides a black horse in the wilderness.

The camps were reached on the evening of July 26, after an uneventful journey through Grafton Notch where all boats have gone except the road and scenery. One house is occupied and possibly another. The road is in good shape. Most of the buildings have been torn down and fields of grass wave in the sunlight. Deserted, going back to the wilderness. The marble slabs in a much neglected burying ground tell of those who once tilled the soil and called this home.

A lunch was had at Mrs. Arnsault's Bear River Tea Room, Newry Corner, and a call made on Harvey S. Hastings, 80 years old, August 1921. He is making good recovery from a mix-up with an unruly calf some weeks ago.

We wanted to use the telephone, but were unable to get the message through. Had tried in Bethel, at the Children office with a similar result. Berlin, N. H. was the extent of the reach, nothing doing above there on the Errol line.

Upton Hill is at the height of land south of Umbagog Lake. It overlooks a good portion of the water. Enoch Abbott has a hotel with an excellent view and sets a good table. Takes guests and tells where trout and pickerel are found.

C. A. Judkins' telephone told us that some joy-riding or misadventure auto had knocked down a telephone pole on the road, N. H., and the wires were under water, hence useless. Our message waited.

Mr. Judkins gave us a calendar, "Telling the days of the year" and showing a photographic view of Umbagog Lake and B. Point. Also incidentally points the way to his store and speaks of trout lots for sale at reasonable prices. Upton is one of the many beauty spots of Maine. Upton has a wealth of scenery and is close to trout, salmon and pickerel fishing. As good as any in the State.

On the westerly side of the road, before crossing the bridge into Errol, is the home of drawn and hand-brained rags. All kinds, sizes, colors and patterns. Prices reasonable.

The gas tank was filled at West's Garage, Errol, N. H., and we endeavored to get word to Capt. Ted Hewey at the big dam, our coming, and found that even the Magalloway line was not working. It "died" at 10:30 in the forenoon. Cause was not stated, but probably from the effects of a fallen tree.

The road to the Big Dam, Aziscoos Lake, is high on perfection, some 18 miles. We got there at 8 o'clock and waited 3 hours and 35 minutes for the leaving of the boat. The passengers came straggling along for that length of time. The last to arrive was an insurance inspector and wife, who said the delay was due to changing a tire. The passengers came straggling along for that length of time. The last to arrive was an insurance inspector and wife, who said the delay was due to changing a tire.

Two dollars a passenger each way is the price for the 12 mile ride. The Hewey family of Andover, Maine, has operated the boat since John Hewey quit being caretaker at Camp Caribou some years ago. It probably pays a fair return for labor and investment. The boat is in good shape and well managed in an extremely difficult lake to navigate. There are stumps and dri-kis everywhere and when the boat is out of the old river channel, unseen sand bars and sunken rocks must be encountered.

The Aziscoos fleet is numerous. George Nason, of Nason's Camps, has the largest, and probably fastest, boat. The day we went up his big boat was pushing us over up the lake on what was an automobile and a black horse. Buckman, Flint, Cameron, Bennett, Hart and many others have sizable motor boats. There are no "kickers" on small boats and canoes.

We were told that the trout were coming to the fly fairly well, but the small flow of water in the brook did not bring up as many big fish as usual. Less running water and less fish.

We found there was a scarcity of big fish. Considerably less than in years past and feel the reason of it is as above stated. Small trout are numerous. More than we have ever seen in the past.

We caught, during our stay, trout and 23 chicks. The largest trout, the only one we killed, weighed less than a pound. Six and a half gallons of gasoline and a quart of oil were used in fly casting. 27 hours devoted to fly casting.

No big fish as yet have been taken in the Little Magalloway. Red and Hamill Brooks were where we got 31 of the 34

SANBORN'S SPECIAL COLUMN

Because I got "pulled" for fishing where I shouldn't, delights some of our readers so they express themselves, to wit:

George Trimp: "Glad it served you right! No business to be fishing all the time. Better stay at home and work."

Harry Shorey of the Bridgton News: "Couldn't you have fixed it without publicity? Guess you could if you'd tried."

Malcolm Gregg, Norway and Andover: "Nothing to it! Just a publicity stunt! Done on purpose so as to get your name in the papers."

Edmund Little, President of the People's National Bank of Lacombe, N. H., clips the story as appeared in the Boston Herald and adds:

"He laughs best who laughs last."

Hereby hangs a story of many years ago, when, by request, we omitted to print the news of his arrest and fine for thoughtlessly riding a high-wheeled bike on the sidewalk of a Massachusetts suburban city.

Hon. J. F. Gaston, lawyer and politician of Passaic, N. J., says: "Your predicament naturally calls for legal aid, which I am always ready and willing to donate in matters of this kind. Especially in the situation you are in, in view of the fact that the culprit is a fellow fisherman. If I can in any way mitigate your mental anguish, I shall be only too glad to tender my service."

Paul Shorey, with becoming dignity for all Maine publicity, wants to know if the fish were biting. He also expresses grief and condolence.

George F. Hart of the Gazette Publishing Company of Dexter extends sympathy and falls into poetry, viz.:

"Better to have fished and paid than never to have fished at all. Benson did and seemed pleased. Excessively so, too."

Maurice Sherman, editor of the Springfield, Mass., Union, passes a compliment on our news service, thusly:

"Your Wilson's Mills correspondent handled the dire calamity that befell you at Twin Brook with entire candor and without belittling diplomacy."

He winds up with this excellent modern advice: "Let this be a warning to you to lead hereafter an upright life with a weather eye constantly out for all millions of the love."

George Witt, of Dorchester, Mass., a life-long subscriber, in remitting for his paper, closes as follows:

"Personally accept my congratulations that you did not receive a jail sentence for the crime which you openly confessed to have committed."

Charlie Jenness, over to Rochester, N. H., newspaper fellow, stops his chase of the possession of the Almighty Dollar long enough to mail a Wildcat poem explanatory, soothing and appropriate for the occasion and situation. Also got another copy of identically the same thing, mailed at Norway and marked "Jim."

Don Seitz of New York, by gravestone wire: "Did they take your finger prints when you got pinched?"

Thanks for all. The curtain drops.

Maine Three-Quarter Century Club

If you are a resident of Maine and if you are seventy-five years of age or older, you are invited to participate in an effort which is being made this month by the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club.

Admiral W. W. Kimball of Paris Hill, President of the Three-Quarter Century Club, has announced a contest open to all residents of Maine who have lived seventy-five years or more. All historical sketches or bits of reminiscence to be submitted for consideration in the contest providing they fall in one of the following classifications:

1.—An account of some event, historical or traditional, of early or pioneer days in Maine prior to the beginning of the Civil War.

2.—An account of some event—historical or traditional—of Maine's participation in or connection with the Civil War.

3.—An account of some Maine event since the close of the Civil War.

4.—A sketch, narrative or descriptive, of life in a Maine town three-quarters of a century ago.

In order to properly classify the material sent in, the committee requests that each writer use one of the above headings at the top of the manuscript to be submitted. More than one entry may be made under each classification if the writer so desires. Each manuscript must not exceed 1,000 words. Prizes will be awarded the most interesting or best manuscript submitted in each classification and the writer of each manuscript—whether it receives a prize or not, will be awarded a special certificate.

Admiral W. W. Kimball will announce the members of a committee to receive and to judge the manuscripts which must reach the committee on or before August 25 so that the names of the winners may be announced at the time of the annual meeting of the club in Augusta on August 30th. With approximately 20,000 residents of Maine over the age of 75 years—and 15,000 of those who are listed as charter members of the Three-Quarter Century Club, it is believed that hundreds of interesting bits of Maine history and tradition will be brought to light as the result of this contest.
